GUNDI BOSCH

Pom-Pom Section On Tap Sat.

Pom-poms and a special reserved section will be available for enthusiastic Monarch football fans at the Homecoming Game Saturday night.

Following the theme of "Wreck the Renegades," students who want to cheer for Valley's team will be supplied with hand pom-poms and green and gold cards with the motto printed on them.

Being the first football game this season that Valley has attempted an organized cheering section, seats for 400 students will be reserved between the 40 yard lines on the west end of the Van Nuys Smith Field Stadium. The game, against the Bakersfield Renegades, will begin at 8 p.m.

Students are urged to wear white shirts and blouses for the cheering section and should arrive early to secure seats as this will be the only section for Valleyites which will be reserved, according to Mel Sacks, associated student body vice president.

Green and white pom-poms will be situated in position on seats in the cheering section before the game starts, according to a planned layout. Students are asked to follow a policy of using the pom-pom already on the seats regardless of its color, according to Sacks.

Halftime ceremonies will be announced by master of ceremonies Jerry Robbins, associated student body president. The Homecoming Queen will be escorted onto the field in a brand new 1958 Buick convertible and presented to the audience. Following the queen presentation will be cars for the two princesses and Valley's cheerleaders wearing racoon coats from the roaring '20's era.

Valley's marching band directed by Earle Immel, music instructor, and the Monarchettes drill team, will present a program dedicated to Homecoming festivities.

Wha' Hoppen to Treasure?—Story To Unfold Tues. Noon

Who hasn't dreamed of digging for buried treasure? Perhaps of using a tattered map as a guide to uncover something of great value? Jay E. Ransom, chemistry instructor, dreamed that dream, but he did something about it. He sailed to an island in the Pacific, took a spade and went digging. What is even better, he found the treasure.

What happened to the treasure he found? That's the story Ransom will tell the lunch-lecture group in Students' Lounge Tuesday noon. Every student not in class at that hour is invited to hear a true story of adventure that happened only three years ago.

Ransom, who speaks Aleut-Eskimo, made the trip to Umnak Island where he headquartered in the village of Nikolai. This is 16 hours by ship from Dutch Harbor. While there, he lived with a native Aleut-Eskimo family.

"Archeology of the Aleutian Islands" will tell of the treasure he found while working the sites of 3000 year old villages for the University of Michigan in 1954.

Archeologist, author, newspaper editor and instructor, Ransom joined Valley's teaching staff this semester. A descendant of the John Adams family, he was born on the Flathead Indian Reservation, a few miles from Missoula, Montana. His parents were homesteaders on the reservation. His youth was spent in Montana, Wyoming and Oregon.

High school in Portland was followed by the University of Washington in Seattle. For five years he was connected with the Alaskan Indian Service where he engaged in field research among the Coastal Indian tribes. He speaks several Indian languages.

Ransom's teaching experience began on the reservation where he taught a grade school of 24 pupils. Only six of them could speak English. Prior to 1949 most of Ransom's time was spent in writing, rather than teaching. In addition to magazine

Film Series Is 'Painless'

Painless education is the main purpose of adding films to this year's Athenaeum series, according to Mrs. Jean Trapnell, English instructor and member of the Athenaeum.

Although the films are primarily for entertainment, they are educational, Mrs. Trapnell said. Both the "Bicycle Thief" and "Wonderful Times" showed life in European countries, and Mrs. Trapnell said that over 500 persons attended each showing.

"The Great Adventure," "Madeline" and "The Emperor's New Clothes" will be presented by the Athenaeum, faculty cultural organization, Wednesday, Nov. 6, at 8 p.m. in the Men's Gym.

Two UPA cartoons, "The Emperor's New Clothes" and "Madeline" are among the most popular cartoons shown commercially, said Mrs. Trapnell. "The Great Adventure" is a film of life in Sweden.

Credit for recommending the film goes to Coles Trapnell, story editor on the Alcoa-Goodyear TV show. Trapnell worked for 20 years at 20th Century Fox Studios before going into TV. The films are rented from film companies who lease the films to non-profit organizations.

Eighth Homecoming Queen To Be Revealed At Dance Tomorrow Night; Six Seek Crown

With Valley College still yet in its infancy, Monarch students and faculty tomorrow night will attend what might be termed as one of Valley's "young traditional" events—the Homecoming Dance.

Taking place in the Women's Gym from 9 p.m. to midnight, the dance will be highlighted with the announcement of the Homecoming Queen and her two princesses.

The royal trio, which was elected by student body vote, will reign throughout the evening and at the Homecoming Football Game against Bakersfield, Saturday night at Van Nuys High School.

The Monarch evening school dance band will make its debut at the dance, it was announced by Robert P. MacDonald, director. The 17-piece band features "sweet and hot" music and the members arrange their own numbers.

MacDonald, Valley music instructor, has worked with several name bands and was an arranger for the Glenn Miller dance band.

Music will drift from an oriental teahouse, part of the "Far East" theme set by the decorations, according to Mike Traxler, chairman and commissioner of social affairs.

Pagodas, lanterns and a 12 by 80 foot oriental mural will blend to the atmosphere.

Prescribed dress is semi-formal—suits or sport jackets for the men and party dresses for the women.

Queen candidates, sponsored by clubs of Valley's Inter-Organization Council, include Gundi Bosch, Lori Fitzpatrick, Jody Jennings, Barbara Kassity, Elizabeth Rae and Susie Straumer.

Ryder's dress shop at 6453 Van Nuys Blvd., Van Nuys, will present the new queen with her choice of a skirt and sweater. Each princess will also receive a sweater from the store, which for many years has donated outfits to Homecoming Queens.

A native of Bavaria, Miss Bosch is sponsored by Ski-Lions, Spanish, International, German and French clubs. She is a graduate of Van Nuys High School.

Miss Fitzpatrick, a police science major, is president of the Police Club, her sponsor, and a member of both the Ski and Do Nothing clubs.

Sponsored by the Newman Club, Miss Jennings is a member of the sponsoring group and is an education major. She is an IOC representative and a graduate of Corvallis High School.

Song leader and a dental hygiene major, Miss Kassity is sponsored by the Do Nothing Club. She is a member of the Spanish Club and a graduate of Van Nuys High School.

The freshman and sophomore classes are sponsoring Miss Straumer, a graduate of Van Nuys High School. She is a secretarial science major, secretary of the associated students and a member of the Ski-Lions.

USA Jazz Septet To Play At Homecoming Assembly

Seven of the top jazz musicians on the West Coast have been signed for the appearance of the USA Jazz Septet today at 11 a.m. in the Women's Gym, according to Roy Beaumont, English instructor. "Get the greatest you can and the ones you like to work with best," said Roy Beaumont when Stan Wrightman, organizer and leader of the Septet, asked him who he would like to have appear.

STANLEY WRIGHTMAN To Lead Septet

Entertaining Valley College students at the second Homecoming assembly will be Wrightman on the piano; Jackie Coons, trumpet; Nick Fatool, drums; Pete Fountain, clarinet; Eddie Miller, tenor sax; Moe Schneider, trombone; and Phil Stevens, bass.

"Greatest hot trumpet on the West Coast," said Beaumont in describing Coons. He is the youngest of the group and musicians like to play with him, according to Beaumont.

On the staff of NBC recording company, Fatool has recorded with every well known jazz band, according to Beaumont, who said Fatool is the greatest jazz drummer living today.

"He is the most spectacular and sensational jazz clarinet to come along in 20 years," said Beaumont of Pete Fountain. He has terrific drive and brilliant tone, said Beaumont.

Eddie Miller is with Bob Crosby at the present time and is one of the two great saxophone players alive, Beaumont added.

"Most versatile of all jazz trombonists and has a terrific technique with a 'gut bucket tailgate,'" said Beaumont of Moe Schneider.

Presently on the staff of Columbia, Phil Stevens has recorded with practically every jazz or musical ensemble. He was offered $25,000 by Louis Armstrong to join his troupe, but turned the offer down, said Beaumont.

High Enrollment Rates Attention

What to do about the flood of students enrolling in classes will be one of the main points discussed at the semi-annual convention of junior college directors and deans.

Walter T. Coultas, director, and William J. McNellis, dean of instruction, are representing Valley College at the convention, which is now in session at Yosemite. Director Coultas and Dean McNellis left Tuesday and will return tomorrow.

The purpose of the convention is to answer questions and discuss problems of California junior colleges, according to Director Coultas.

Athletics will be on the agenda also, according to Director Coultas.

Mr. Schrieter Dies from Fall

Funeral services for Herbert G. Schrieter, engineering instructor, who died early Tuesday following a fall from a roof of his house at 12402 Laurel Terrace Dr., North Hollywood, will be held today at 1 p.m. at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Riverside Drive and Nagel Avenue, North Hollywood.

Mr. Schrieter had been an instructor at Valley College since 1950 and was sponsor of the engineering honor society, Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon, and the Engineers' Club. He had held prior teaching positions at LACC, USC, Glendale and Compton colleges.

He earned his AB degree from the University of Wisconsin and an MA from the University of Chicago.

He is survived by his widow Dorothy and his two daughters, Mrs. Naomi Collins and Mrs. Mary Mole.

'John Doe' on Campus Today

Anonymous John Doe will become a little better known to Valley College playgoers today when the experimental theater "lab" presents Bernard Victor Dryer's "John Doe," directed by L. A. Frerer.

The one-act show will be given at 12 noon, 1 p.m. and 2 p.m. in the Little Theater. Admission is free to all one-act productions. Ron Perry heads the cast of eight as John Doe.

Assistant director for the presentation will be Cindy Shea. Mabel Wright is script girl, Frerer said.

Joe Locastro, who is appearing as Father Julio in "John Doe" will direct "The Rope" by Eugene O'Neill in Nov. 14, according to Pat O'Connor.

In the female lead as Mrs. Sweeney will be character actress Paulyn O'Hara. Bob McKendrick plays Bentley in the one-act drama.

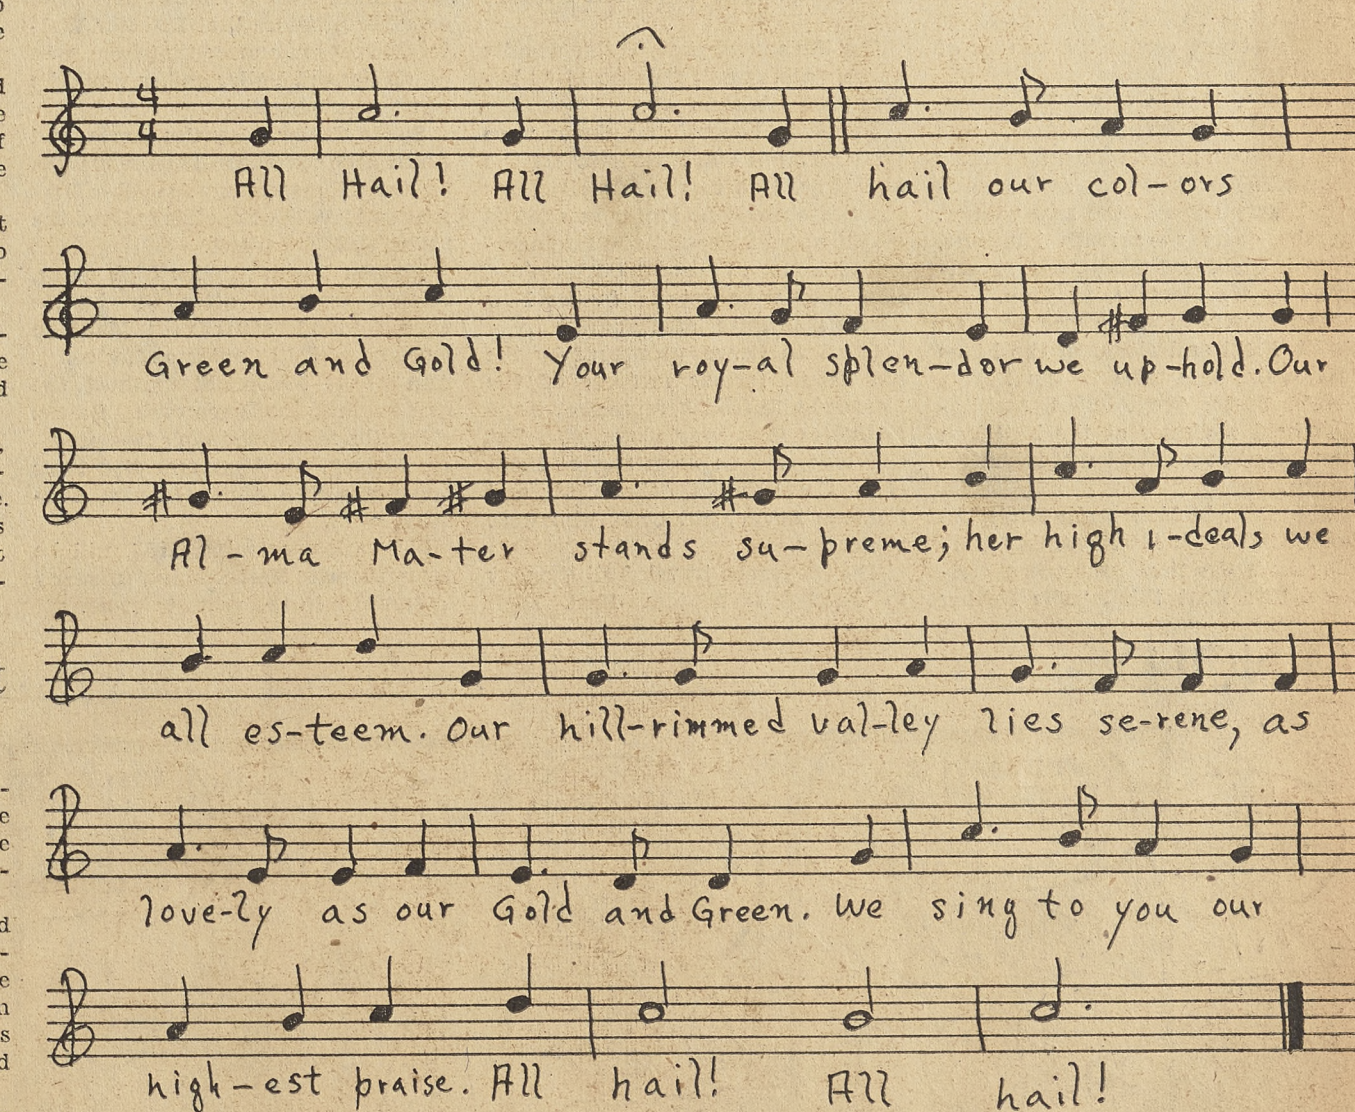

With "The Tender Trap" closing, preparations are being made for the next Crown Players production, "Time Limit" by Henry Denker and Ralph Berkey.

Director Coultas Expresses Thanks

May I express the thanks and appreciation of the faculty and administration for your courteous and friendly reception of the accreditation team visitors. They spoke to many of you, visited your classes, observed your student activity program, and were tremendously impressed by your spirit and loyalty to our college. Thank you.

All Hail! Green and Gold

By JERRY ROBBINS

Hopes of winning over the Bakersfield Renegades for the third straight year will be answered Saturday evening at Van Nuys' Smith Field when Mentor Al Hunt's Valley Monarchs square off with Coach Homer Beatty's perennial powerhouses in the local team's Homecoming, chosen to be the Bethlehem Star Bowl game. Kickoff is scheduled for 8 p.m.

Valley started on its win streak two years ago with an upset 7-6 win in what figured to be the battle for the Directions for driving to Van Nuys High School from Valley where the Valley-Bakersfield football game will be played Saturday night:

Van Nuys High School is situated at 6535 Cedros Ave., with the football field at the corner of Hamlin and Kester. Hamlin is two blocks north of Victory Blvd., while Kester is four blocks west of Van Nuys Blvd. If you are going west on Victory, turn right at Kester, to Hamlin.

Metropolitan Conference crown and was also the Lion squad's Homecoming.

Playing the role of "spoiler" last season Valley again upset the Renegades, this time in their Homecoming, 13-7, and temporarily knocked from first place the team which went on to capture the loop flag.

An expected standing-room-only crowd should witness what promises to be judging from past contests, a hard fought rock 'em, sock 'em ballgame although neither college boasts an impressive slate nor is either picked to take the title as has happened in the last two years.

The series, which dates back to 1950, stands with Bakersfield winning four and Valley three, while only seven points have been the widest margin of victory for the past three years.

Beatty's squad enters the contest with a 1-1-1 conference record following a thrilling come-from-behind win over Santa Monica last week, 20-19. They also sport a 14-6 loss to San Diego and a 6-6 tie with Long Beach.

Scientists Needed

Why are we lagging behind the Soviet Union in the missiles race? When will we launch our own space satellite and catch up to the Reds? No one can answer these questions without being bombarded by denials and arguments from that segment of people bearing the burden of blame.

Most Americans, while recognizing the importance of the Soviet achievement, have a deep faith that the U.S. will come out on top in the end.

Some blame our military leaders for the U.S. missile lag, but do not hold President Eisenhower personally responsible. Very few think a Congressional investigation of the missile program would help much at this point.

What does the Russian Sputnik actually mean to us? It means that man has broken out of his terrestrial limits. He has made his first mark in space.

The main fact that we must face is this: as a scientific and engineering power, the Soviet Union has made remarkable strides. The U.S. may have more cars, washing machines and toasters, but in terms of the material with which wars are won and ideologies imposed, our nation must now begin to view Russia as a power with a proven and frightening potential.

This is something our top scientists have known for some time. Something the leaders of research and development have preached constantly within the military.

Our scientists have asked for more money for basic research but the administration and Congress have been confronted with persistent demands for economy. More important, the nation has been repeatedly warned of the scarcity of young men and women entering the field of science.

A young Russian scientist, S. M. Poloskov, was quoted in one of our large metropolitan newspapers as saying, "In America you have trouble recruiting young men to study science. In the Soviet Union we have trouble turning them down. With us, science is a matter of pride, and everybody wants to be a scientist."

"We get the biggest salaries," Poloskov smiled. "Bigger than some important government officials."

Poloskov neglected to mention that almost the entire upper division of study in Russia is composed of science courses and allied subjects.

Those of us who have not chosen our field of endeavor should explore the possibilities of a future in science. Now is the time that we need young scientists, for now comes the steady, ever-amazing development of a different world . . . a world in space.

Unselfish Donors

The most important social event of the semester is here. Many campus organizations are to be congratulated for the hard work they have put into making this year's Homecoming a fruitful enterprise.

Unfortunately, recognition very often fails to fall on those who deserve it most. Hundreds of students who have contributed their spare hours to further some phase of Valley's Homecoming celebration will find their only return is the satisfaction they receive from having made the event more enjoyable for others.

We wish to thank these unselfish contributors.

Colorful History of Valley Homecomings Includes Parades, Dancing Girls, Live Lion

By SUE REILLY
Star Staff Writer

Homecoming 1957 will undoubtedly be the biggest and best ever, but to the "old grad" it will never be as exciting as those of yesteryear.

For example, remember when in 1950, Nov. 18, to be exact, Valley held its first Homecoming? Pete Kokon of the Valley Times, Stuart Bankhardt from the Chamber of Commerce, Allen McKee of radio station KGIL, Ferd Mendenhall of the Van Nuys News and Rudy Jackson of the Van Nuys Retail Merchants Association chose the queen that year as the activities got off to a fast start.

The Valley royalty was interviewed over State KGL and paraded down Van Nuys Blvd. before the game. At the dance they were officially crowned but the fact that the Monarchs had lost on the football field, 42-12 to Harbor's team, dulled the success of the event.

In 1951, blonde Carol Martinson, Letterman's Club candidate, was elected queen and crowned by former Queen Vackar who presented American beauty roses to the new winner. In the court were Ruth Hurlbut, French Club, and Gloria Carr, sponsored by the Engineering Club.

The afternoon game was held on Smith Field and although the Lions lost again, this time to the Loyola Frosh, 34-14, the Alumni Association held a dinner at the Bull Pen Restaurant in celebration of their first return.

The French Club really took the honors in the 1952 Homecoming, winning both the float and queen contests. The float titled "The Roving Kind," featured Caroline Kent, the queen.

Lawrence Welk and Roberta Linn played in the Monarch Bowl for the queen whose court included Phyllis Mitchell, Engineering Club; Sharon Curran, Chi Sigma Chi; Darlene Hill, College Choir; and La Verne Lenarsic, Letterman's Club.

The girls and student and administration leaders were once more paraded through Van Nuys before the Monarchs won their first Homecoming Game, beating Harbor 24-7.

Such themes as Scheherazade's Court, complete with a slave master, dancing girls and a snake charmer; Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves; Beauty and the Beast; Queen of the Mystic Isle; Joan of Arc; and Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs were seen parading through Van Nuys in 1953.

For the second time, Valley won its game, upsetting El Camino 16-13 before 3000 jubilant fans.

In 1954 Homecoming floats were paraded down Van Nuys Blvd. for the last time. Due to police restrictions the floats would no longer be allowed on the streets. The Art and Engineering Club floats were so good, however, that they were entered in the New Year's Day Rose Bowl Parade.

Charlene Lance, sponsored by the Ski Lions, former member of the Horace Heidt troupe, reigned over the festivities that year along with Pat Gerstade, Tri C; Joan Smith, Delta class; Carol Vosika, Police Club; and Barbara LeVey, Ski Club, who were princesses.

The Monarchs traveled all the way to Newhall's William Hart High

Claims Ethics Violated

There is a policy on the Valley Star in which your adviser, Mr. Ken Devol, places trust and confidence in the reporters and editors to uphold ethical principles in newspaper writing.

I believe you violated both of these by your column, "The Valley Forge," in last Thursday's issue of the Star.

In my opinion, the column was nonsensical, tactless and immature. If you honestly believe that your described the "pulse" of Valley College then I believe you hold distorted conceptions of Valley.

Certainly you violated journalism ethics in not presenting correct facts, and in making defamatory remarks. Of all the worthwhile activities in progress at Valley (Athenaeum, Luncheon Series, Homecoming, band, Monarchettes, and others), you choose to discolor a few incidental happenings.

How do you think your staff feels about the column when they have been striving for better public relations with the student body, faculty and Valley College and then hear a bombshell of remarks?

If your column was meant to be of entertainment value only, then human emotions should not be toyed with. Bitter feelings must be present in many campus persons, students and faculty alike, as a result of the column.

I would surmise also that the accreditation board members felt disrespect from your column, ultimately as it was while we are seeking full accreditation renewal.

In the future, let us see more productive efforts from an editor who has more potential and ability than was demonstrated last week.

Flips Over Lovelies

Editor:
Amidst a recent campus wandering I came upon a "natural" for a fiery editorial.

In the patio area, six girls were posing for photographs and when I found out that the young lovelies composed this year's Homecoming Queen candidates I literally flipped.

The small number of candidates was poor enough in itself but when I learned that one candidate had as many as five clubs sponsoring her—that was the end.

The club officials who decided to band together in offering a candidate should be examined for "polyitis." They not only have succeeded in taking the interest out of the election, but have deprived many other clubs from sponsoring candidates and thus prevented other deserving girls from running in the bargain.

What single club wants to buck the power represented in a five-club alliance?

Forethought on the part of the Inter-Organization Council would have stopped this disgusting mockery of an election. Perhaps limiting the sponsorship of the hopefuls to just two clubs in the first place could have alleviated this ridiculous situation.

We Get Letters

WE GET LETTERS 2-24T VALLEY FORGE E
Every once in a while, the Valley Star will print an editorial or column in which it condemns one thing or another for not being "just right." This is the basis for my column this week.

Usually when the Star prints such a column or editorial, I receive a letter or two from students who either agree or disagree with the statements made. This week, I received six letters which I feel deserve answers. I would like to take up my allotted space and give a reply to these students.

So if you, the reader, hope to understand the remainder of this column, I suggest you read the "Monarch Lion's Roar" columns first.

There were many letters that came in this week which were similar to the first one. The Star staff chose to "run" Student Body President Jerry Robbins' message because, in a sense, he represents the feeling of both the faculty and students.

I must admit, however, that Mr. Robbins is right in almost every statement he made. In the Valley Forge, last week, I tried to put over some points which I felt were humorous. Obviously, I did not succeed.

I had no idea that I would raise "hard feelings" when I wrote the article, and the Valley Star wishes to apologize to any of the faculty and students who were offended by its content. I honestly "step back" and say, "We goofed!"

I'm sorry that Former Star Editor John Dondanville "literally flipped" when he found out that five clubs were backing one queen candidate. I did not take it quite so physically. I also didn't write a "fiery editorial" because by the time the paper would have come out, nothing could have been accomplished.

Instead, I tried to remedy the situation by "visiting" the various club advisers involved, in an attempt to have some clubs drop out.

All the advisers I saw thought the situation was unfair, but due to lack of time for finding new candidates, wouldn't withdraw their backing. The only thing left to do was make sure it wouldn't happen again, next year. This was partially insured when Student Body Vice President Mel Sacks and I sat down to work out reasonable rules and regulations for next year's Homecoming. These new rules, which are to be presented to the Inter-Organization Council, state that not more than two clubs are to sponsor a queen candidate (among other items).

I hope in answering Dondanville's letter that I have given a satisfactory reply to Mr. Sprague's letter also. Although many of us won't agree with Sprague's post script at this stage of the game . . . thanks anyway.

Miss Novak, in the Oct. 10 issue of the Valley Star on the Campus Page, the Star ran two Psychology Club stories, both of which dealt with the panel discussion. Due to lack of space in the issue after the Psychology event, the Star was unable to print the "follow-up story."

If you'll look at last week's page three, you will see that there was very little room for even a picture. You're right! These gatherings should be encouraged, but our "oversight" was due to lack of space, not interest.

I believe, D.D.P., your letter is self-explanatory and was answered when I replied to Mr. Dondanville and Mr. Sprague. However, to Miss Cohen I would like to state that there are certain advantages in not signing one's name to a piece of literature . . . and let's let it go at that.

Happy Homecoming, everyone!

Looking Around

By Lorelei Calcagno

It Happens Every Fall

"Homecoming? Is that when everyone comes home?" asked the little freshman, directing the question to a big, mature sophomore. "Why, you mean to say you don't know what Homecoming is?" said the sophomore.

"The catalogue says it happens every fall and that campus organizations sponsor the election of a queen and her court who are given positions of honor at the "Homecoming" football game and dance. It also says that it is an event of community-wide interest and participation. But I never heard of it before," said the freshman.

"Oh, these freshmen. It's not like rain. It doesn't just 'happen' every fall. And another thing, the queens aren't chosen just so some pretty co-ed can get a good seat at the football game," explained the sophomore.

"Well, how come I have never seen a picture of a Valley College Homecoming Queen in the newspapers?" asked the freshman.

"Being a young campus, Valley College doesn't exactly have its traditions straightened out," explained the sophomore.

"I still would like to know who comes home. Looking at the campus, there doesn't seem to be much to come back to," said the freshman.

"Alumni come back. Don't tell me you didn't know that?" said the sophomore.

"It doesn't take new buildings and paved parking lots to make going to college a pleasant time in one's life or a time full of memories," explained the sophomore.

"How about the football team? I heard that Homecoming meant the football team came home to the campus to play," said the freshman.

"Though our team won't be coming here to 13161 Burbank Blvd. to fight the Renegades, in a sense they will be at home when they play. You see, Freshman, Valley College was first located across from Van Nuys High School, where our team will be playing. The land Valley used at that time is now part of Van Nuys High School."

"To make this whole affair more confusing to me than ever, how come 40,000 tickets are being sold to the public?" asked the Freshman.

"O.K., Freshman, what are you trying to do--get smart?" said the sophomore.

"I just asked a simple question," said the freshman.

"I can't understand why I'm wasting time talking to a freshman. There must be something else to do. You'd think I were a UNIVAC with all these questions," said the sophomore.

A Pictorial Review

Eighth Valley Queen Joins Royal Parade

Valley's eighth Homecoming Queen will be common knowledge in what amounts to a few short hours. Since 1950, when Rae Racker was elected, Valley College students have been selecting a queen for their annual Homecoming Game.

Filled with pageantry, floats, and gaiety, Monarch Homecoming Week has brought thrills to Valley students.

Carolyn Kent, seen in the picture at the lower left, reigned over the 1952 festivities. Eleven campus organizations entered floats in Valley's third Homecoming.

"Arabian Nights" was the theme of the 1953 Homecoming. Lani Haverlin, seen in the upper left, was chosen queen, and crowned at the coronation dance.

Beauty and the beast were featured at the 1955 Homecoming, upper right. Ann Marie McDonald was elected queen, and Jackie, the queen's friend, added a touch of royalty to the proceedings. The Monarch Lion ramped playfully with the cheerleaders.

Queen Marsha Tatlow and her 1956 court are seen at the lower right. Princesses Maureen Kurland and Jill Coulon smile happily as Queen Marsha beams her joy.

Do Nothing Club Announces Dance Plans; Post Game Record Jump Told by Rossi

Chuck Rossi, Do Nothing Club president, announced plans for an informal record dance in the Women's Gym after Saturday night's Homecoming game.

The dance, according to Rossi, will begin right after the football game and will be free to all Valley College students.

Rossi, whose club recently received an IOC charter, expressed a belief that the dance will be the first in Monarch history to follow immediately after a Homecoming game.

Spanish Dinner Set For Thanksgiving

Los Amigos del Valle will meet Tuesday at 2 p.m. in Room 45 to discuss further plans for a Thanksgiving party to be held Saturday, Nov. 23, at 8 p.m. in the Student Lounge.

The club is expecting to have Perico and Pepe Cervantes, professional guitarists, entertain along with other guests.

Club members will be treated to their first authentic Spanish dinner which, according to Arthur D. Avila, adviser for the club, will be "Paella a la Valenciana" a feast beyond compare. Dancing to Spanish music is also planned for the evening.

Last week the Spanish club served tacos, free of charge, to over 400 students and faculty members at a get acquainted party in the Green and Gold Room.

Coronet Adviser Was India Resident

Advising the Coronets along with Mrs. Della S. Outram, is a newcomer to Valley, Mrs. Evamaria Chookolingo. Mrs. Chookolingo, who taught chemistry at S.C. and resided in Indian for three years is now teaching chemistry at Valley.

Lion-'Gade Battle Marks Close Of Homecoming

Ed's Echo

By Ed Marquez

An Impressive Record

Mentor Al Hunt takes his twice beaten, one-win Lion squad to Van Nuys Smith Field this Saturday night to tangle with the Bakersfield Renegades in Valley College's traditional Homecoming Game.

Powerladden Bakersfield will be full of revenge after Valley's downing them by a tally of 13-7 at their annual Homecoming Game, last year.

Under the tutelage of Al Hunt, the Monarchs have failed to lose a Homecoming tilt dating back to Hunt's arrival in 1952.

Santa Monica came the closest to spoiling Hunt's record by tying the Lions by a 13-13 tally in last year's spectacle at Van Nuys.

With the exception of one game, which was with Harbor in '52, all the Valley Homecoming Games have been won on small margins, with Valley not winning by not more than three points at the most in any Homecoming Game.

Here's how Al Hunt's Homecoming Game series stands to date since he took over coaching duties in 1952.

1952—Valley 24, Harbor 7.
1953—Valley 16, El Camino 13.
1954—Valley 14, San Diego 13.
1955—Valley 7, Bakersfield 6.
1956—Valley 13, Santa Monica 13.

Excluding Harbor, the other three games were won by such close margins by Valley that if you add the total points that separated Valley and their opponents, it would only add up to five points.

This gives one an idea of the slim margins which the Valley squad has won these yearly affairs in the past.

Even in Hunt's worst season at Valley in '54, when the Valley squad had an over-all season record of 3-6-1, the Monarchs pulled through with a 14-13 win over the San Diego Knights giving Valley another Homecoming victory.

There has only been one time in Valley's young school history that Valley has ever played a non-conference team in a Homecoming Game. This was in 1951 when the Monarchs played the Loyola Frosh.

Valley was a young school that year, entering its second year of football competition. The Lions only had four conference games scheduled for the season. Pierce was supposed to be the visiting team that year for the grid classic, but the game was cancelled because the Brahmas couldn't field a team.

Acting fast, the Valley coaching staff quickly acquired a fill-in team for the now empty game slot. The Loyola Frosh was asked to fill in on this last minute cancellation.

The Loyola Lions were so thrilled by this invitation that they gave the hosts a 39-14 defeat in the school's second Homecoming Game.

When Valley meets Bakersfield Saturday, this is the record that the griders under Al Hunt's tutelage will be carrying on the field with them in Homecoming games. Let's hope they can keep this record up.

Morgan's JV's Close Out Year With Tie Game

Coach Jack Morgan's scrappy JV griders closed out their 1957 season with a hard fought 6-6 tie against East Los Angeles on the Huskie's home grounds.

Sparked by the brilliant passing of Mickey Alzola and the hard running of Rod Blucher and Ernie Nelson, the Monarchs displayed a flashy offensive attack but frequently stalled as the Huskie defense stiffened inside the 20 yard line.

Quarterback Alzola completed seven out of nine pass attempts and five of them were caught by Blucher. The Monarchs' only touchdown came as a result of a long pass to Dick Grove who carried the ball over the goal for six points.

The Huskies were unable to penetrate the Lion goal line until the last 45 seconds of the game when they executed a tackle-eligible play good for a TD.

Valley was handicapped by lack of substitutes as only 17 men were able to make the trip.

The JV's had a final season record of three wins, two losses and one tie.

Johnson Calls Meet Of Local Tee Team

Another meeting will be held Tuesday at 12 noon in the Men's Gym for all men who are interested in competing in golf next semester, said Coach E. Y. Johnson.

This is so we can get organized for the coming semester in an "unrushed" manner, said Johnson.

Basketball Squad Has Speed But Lacks Rebounding Height

By TOM FITZPATRICK
Star Staff Writer

"Swish,atta boy Dave! Watch that man Whitey!" These are the words that echo through the Men's Gym as Coach Ralph Caldwell's Valley hoopsters enter their third week of practice.

"We have a fast, speedy team this year," said Caldwell. "But we will have to sacrifice our rebounding game, because of lack of height."

Two Returning Lettermen

The team consists of two returning lettermen. William "Whitey" Williams, center and Dave "Duke" Cadiante, star guard on last year's squad. Williams is a 23 year old veteran and was the team's top rebounder and scorer last year with an average of 12.2 points per game. He also garnered second string all-conference honors and played on the conference all-star team against San Diego, last year's conference champs.

This list is headed by Jim Malkin, 6-foot 2-inch, 18 year old forward from Hollywood High School and Bruce Powers, 6-foot 2-inch, 17 year old forward from Los Angeles High School.

Malkin was selected on the first string all-league and third string all-city teams while attending Hollywood High, while Powers won the Most Valuable Player award at Los Angeles High.

Other new faces vying for first string berths are Bill Wold, a 6-foot, 19 year old, who specializes in jump shots and was selected to the all-city baseball team while attending Fairfax High and diminutive Tom Wright, 5-foot 8-inch guard from Notre Dame High.

Singled out by Caldwell as showing the most improvement are Gary Thompson, 6-foot 4-inch, 19 year old forward from Notre Dame High and Ted Fish, 6-foot 2-inch, 19 year old forward and captain of last year's Van Nuys High School squad.

San Diego Will Be Tough
Conference champions, San Diego and East Los Angeles will probably give the Monarchs the most trouble. San Diego is reported to have all five members of last year's first string as returning lettermen and East Los Angeles has a 6-foot 7-inch center along with two all-city players on this year's squad, said Caldwell.

Monarchs Bow 34-8 To Vikings

Costly fumbling errors, plus a powerful Long Beach ground attack paved the way to a 34-8 rout over Valley College last Saturday night, in Veterans' Memorial Stadium in Long Beach.

Touchdown whiz, halfback Mickey Flynn was hogtied most of the game but backs Ken Ruhlen and Dan Wasnick teamed together to give the Vikings a potent running attack.

Shocking Valley at the beginning of each half, an alert Viking eleven capitalized on two fumbles to score easy touchdowns.

Only five plays after the fans were seated Mel Mortabio, Viking quarterback picked a Valley fumble out of the air and raced 38 yards to score before a bewildered Monarch team.

The other stunner came after the intermission when Ruhlen, Vike halfback, dashed to paydirt on the second play of the young half. Valley had fumbled the "hot potato" on their first play from scrimmage.

Valley's Lone Score

Valley's lone TD came on a Jim Erbes-John Rosegard pass-run play that netted 55 yards. Rosegard deftly sidestepped one would-be tackler before romping down the sidelines to score. John Miscione's conversion attempt was wide.

With Ruhlen dashing hither-and-yon at will, the Vikings drove 82 yards in seven plays to cap the scoring for the first half. One 40 yard jaunt by Ruhlen set up his one yard scoring plunge.

After the score mounted to 21-6 early in the second half, the Green and Gold arched a passing attack. Throwing successfully in the initial half Jim Erbes completed four of five passes.

Vikings Show Air Power

Long Beach also showed some air power by scoring on a 46 yard pass play in the third quarter. John McDonald turned the Valley defenders heads with a perfect fake and then reeled and threw to Bill Tomasic who was all by his lonesome.

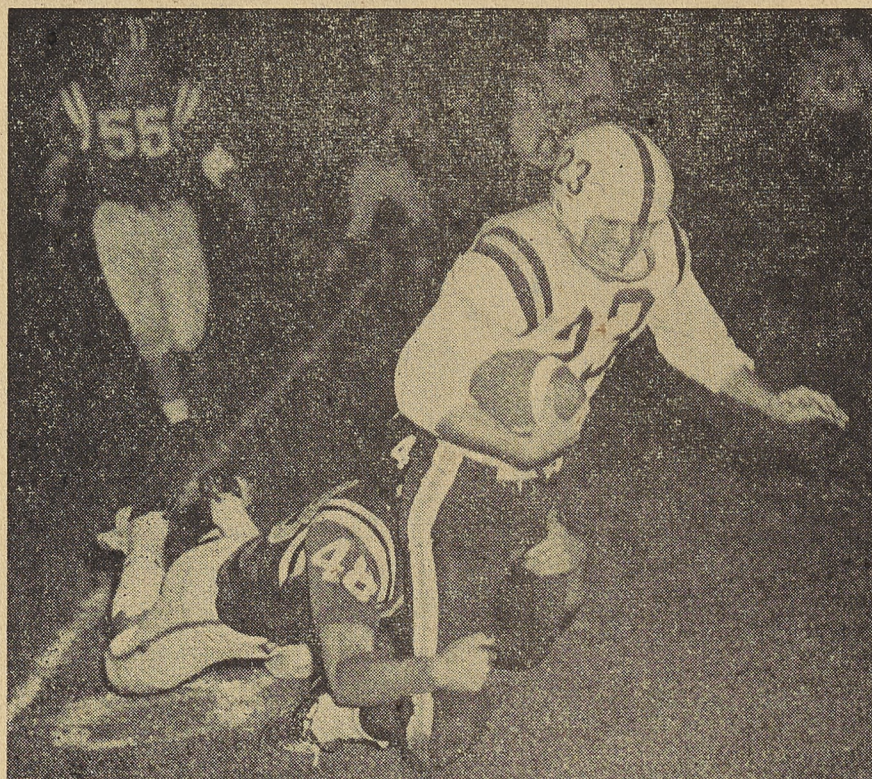

Wheeling and dealing again Valley took the ball and tramped into scoring territory, but a fourth down and nine to go play netted only eight yards and the Vikings took over on their two yard line.

Two points were gained by Valley as a poor Long Beach pass from center went out of the end zone to give Valley an automatic safety. This brought the score to 27-8 at the end of the third quarter.

Valley Takes Over

Valley took over after the safety and here followed a flurry of pass interceptions which found Valley losing the ball, gaining the ball, and then finally losing the ball for good.

Long Beach needed only six plays for Flynn to break through the center for the TD. The vaunted Flynn however was held to 18 yards in six carries before this last TD drive. Flynn broke loose for runs of 6, 20 and 14 yards in this drive.

LET ME GO—Monarch halfback Gary Smith (23) tries in vain to shake off Long Beach Viking tackler Ken Ruhlen. Smith picked up five of Valley's 190 ground-gained yards before Ruhlen (48), Viking safety man, decided to go along for the ride. The Vikings nabbed a 34-8 verdict over the Al Hunt-coached Valley eleven.

Ortiz 'Shows' at Mt. SAC

Brian Matravers of Modesto set a new meet and course record last Friday when he won the ninth annual 2.7 mile Mt. San Antonio invitational cross country run for junior colleges.

He was timed in 13:31.8, breaking the record established last year by Mt. San Antonio's Larry Ward in 13:33.5.

Dick Ortiz of Valley's harrier squad finished third in the time of 13:39, just barely nosing out Metropolitan Conference champion Miles Eisen-man of Bakersfield, who finished a strong fourth at 13:40.

Mount San Antonio won the team title for the third consecutive year, with a low point total of 61. Valley was fourteenth, hauling down 403 points. A field of 175 runners was entered.

Valley's leather-lungers meet a strong El Camino team tomorrow at El Camino, commented Mann. They are tied for first place in the conference, said Mann.

Winless Lions Meet Corsairs

Having recovered from the flu, Valley's water polo team travels to El Camino College tomorrow in an attempt to bring back a loop win for the Monarchs.

The game is rated as a toss-up by the aqua mentor Mike Wiley. The Corsairs ended their conference slate last year with a 5-2-0 record placing them in second slot in the Metro Conference behind Long Beach, who had a perfect game slate.

Mike Wiley's team will have a busy schedule next week, picking up the two games that the Monarchs had to cancel last week because of the flu.

Santa Monica and Los Angeles CC are the two schools the Valley aquamen will face in the two make-up games.

The LACC Cubs are the Lions' host Monday and are rated better than average by Coach Mike Wiley. The Cubs wound up in third place in the Southern California Junior College Water Polo Tournament played at the beginning of the season.

Traveling to Santa Monica, Wednesday, the aquamen take on a fairly even squad. The Corsairs are rated ahead of the Monarchs by a slim margin. The beach city is currently holding down the second slot in the Metro Conference behind powerful Long Beach.

The Valley aquamen went down to a crushing 10-4 defeat last Tuesday against Pasadena City College on the foe's home grounds.
